Second Tabulation Boosts Red Cross Total to $262.40

Second Day's Drive Continues In All Four Wards of Hope

RESPONSE IS GOOD

Star to Publish About 100 Names Each Day of Campaign

Red Cross Roll Call workers Tuesday began their second day's drive for memberships with the continuation of a house-to-house canvass in the four Hope wards.

The campaign in the business area also continued.

Workers reported a good response in the opening drive Monday. A second tabulation of funds from the Monday canvass showed an additional $145.40.

This brings the total to date to $262.40. This figure does not include all of Monday's report. The Star is publishing about 100 names each day and will continue to do so as the campaign progresses.

If your name fails to get into print the day you become a member of the Red Cross organization—it will be published in a subsequent issue as all funds are tabulated at the Red Cross office in the First National Bank building and then released to the newspaper.

Mrs. T. E. Bailey, Stricken at Home

Mother of Ralph and Logan Bailey of Hope Dies Instantly

Mrs. T. E. Bailey, 64, mother of Circuit Clerk Ralph Bailey and Logan Bailey of Hope, died Tuesday morning of an heart attack as she fell from the back porch steps at her home five miles southwest of Rosston, Nevada county.

At first it was believed Mrs. Bailey sustained a neck fracture and shock, causing death instantly. A physician's examination showed that apparently she died of heart disease.

Her husband, hearing the plunge down the high rear steps, rushed to her. She was dead when he picked her up. Reports said Mrs. Bailey was carrying a bundle of quilts down the steps when stricken by the heart attack.

Mrs. Bailey was a native of Nevada county, born and reared near Rosston. She had lived at her present home the past 30 years.

Besides her husband, two sons, Ralph and Logan Bailey of Hope, she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Doris Mae McKissack of Corpus Christi, Texas; one brother, Joe Fisher of Nevada county; and one sister, Mrs. A. F. Marlar, also of Nevada county.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Wednesday at Holly Springs church, near the Bailey home in Nevada county. Burial will be in the Holly Springs cemetery.

CIO Rejected by Factory in Camden

Camden Furniture Employees Turn It Down Two to One

CAMDEN, Ark. — In an election held Monday by the National Labor Relations Board, employees of the Camden Furniture Company rejected by a 2 to 1 vote a proposal for the C. I. O. to be their sole bargaining agency. The vote was 149 to 73 with 222 out of a possible 250 employees voting and with Thomas F. Nablett of New Orleans, field examiner of the National Labor Relations Board, and assistants in charge.

This was the first time in the history of the local industry that a vote has been held under the labor act. There is a C. I. O. chapter of furniture workers in the local plant, but it has only a few members. An organizer of the union from Fort Smith has been here for several weeks.

Material Cost Is Reduced for House

New Technique Compresses Earth Into Permanent Blocks

AP Feature Service

STILWATER, Okla. — Prof. J. E. Kirkham of Oklahoma A. & M. college is Oklahoma's one-man low-cost housing administration.

He has found a building material that he says cuts costs about 25 per cent but he isn't satisfied.

He mixes common soil with chemicals, compresses it into building blocks and produces a substance he says "hardens with age and shrugs at inclement weather."

Dozens of houses have been built of it. Professor Kirkham, who seeks no profit, has offered his formula to the public in bulletin form.

"The blocks still cost too much and so I continue to experiment," says Professor Kirkham.

The material, besides being weather proof, is a good insulating material and houses built of it are cool in summer and easy to heat in winter. Walls are six inches thick.

It lends itself to modernistic treatment and a house of the most modern architecture now is nearing completion here. In addition, a 20-room NYA headquarters is built of Kirkham-treated blocks.

Professor Kirkham is a practical engineer who specialized in building bridges and then wrote two technical books before settling down to teaching and determining to lower building costs.

Germany's Reply to Peace Offer of Low Countries 'No'

Von Ribbentrop Formally Answers, After British-French "No"

FIVE VESSELS SUNK

Three British, Two German Ships Are Destroyed at Sea

BERLIN, German —(AP)— Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop Tuesday informed the Belgian and Netherlands envoys that Germany's reply to the joint mediation offer from the lowland nations would be a polite "No."

The formal reply to the offer was to be sent Tuesday to the Hague and Brussels, with instructions to German envoys that it be presented Wednesday, informed sources said.

Von Ribbentrop was said to have stated Germany's reply was based on the answers already received by the two sovereigns from Britain and France, which he said rendered peace impossible at this time.

By the Associated Press

Warfare at sea, where the conflict between Germany and the Western Allies thus far has been fought most intensively, Tuesday inflicted new casualties on both Britain and Germany.

A British destroyer, British freighter, British trawler and two German freighters were listed as new losses.

The destroyer, unidentified by a British admiralty announcement, was said to have been sunk after hitting a German mine. One member of the crew was killed and six are missing.

The trawler Cresswell, was sunk by a German submarine. The 8,003-ton freighter Matra went down after an explosion in the North Sea.

It was believed she carried a mine. German crowmen scuttled the freighters Parana and Mecklenburg, avoided capture, the British admiralty claimed.

German Ships Sunk

LONDON, Eng. —(AP)— The Admiralty announced Monday that British warships had sunk two German steamers after their crews had been picked up.

The German steamers Mecklenburg, 8,000 tons, and Parana, 6,000 tons, have been intercepted by British warships and their crews have been picked up.

The German ships, leaving their home ports, were found in the North Sea. Two ships were finally sunk by gunfire to avoid any chance of their being a danger to navigation.

Nazis Threaten Liners

BERLIN, Germany —(AP)— All Berlin newspapers Tuesday morning published lists of British and French passenger ships and freighters which were being threatened by German submarines.

Listed among the vessels were the Queen Mary, Aquitania, Mauretania, Georgic, Empress of Russia, De Grasse and other large liners. A total of 29 British and five French ships were mentioned.

The impression here was that Germany was warning the world's travelers and shippers it would be hazardous to use these vessels. The Queen Mary is docked in New York harbor, where she has been inactive since the start of the war. Authorities were silent but prominent display of the lists led to the assumption major sea action is in prospect.

Field Marshal Goering's National Zeitung of Essen said that armed merchantmen must be regarded as pirate ships.

"It is a matter of indifference whether it is a 100-ton ship, with a crew of 10, or a vessel of 80,000 tons," the National Zeitung said. (80,000 is the tonnage of the Queen Mary). "If the passengers, including women and children, use these English pirate ships, they should complain to the travel agency of Churchill & Co."

Winston Churchill is first lord of the British Admiralty.

Musical Ghost Is Found Out

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. —(AP)— Hopkinsville police have marked down the mystery of the "haunted music machine" in a local tavern as solved by the usual electrical short circuit.

Three times within two weeks the nickel music box began playing in the middle of the night. Apparently no one was in the building and no nickel in the slot.

Leland Atkinson, the owner who lives in an adjoining building, asked the aid of police after hearing the music late at night in the belief some one was robbing the tavern.

Merit System to Be Demanded by U.S. in Arkansas

Raid on State Bureaus Is Charged to Federal Authorities

BITTER FIGHT SEEN

Controversy Centers in Welfare and Education Departments

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. —(AP)— Governor Bailey announced Tuesday he would meet here with Ed McDonald, regional director for the Social Security Board, and their regional attaches November 23 to discuss the board's request that state agencies disburse federal funds be placed under a "merit personnel system."

The governor indicated exchanges between the state and the board on the proposal would reach a climax at that meeting.

Controversy Arises

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, cautioned state administrators of social security programs Monday against political activity of said state agencies.

He sent to state officials information on new minimum standards for personnel merit systems adopted by the Social Security Board, and said "it is the responsibility of the state governments to administer their unemployment and welfare programs and it is the responsibility of the federal government to hold the states merely to minimum standards set up by congress and the proper expenditure of federal funds."

He emphasized that state merit system regulations "must bar employees from participating in political activities except to express their views and cast their ballots as citizens. They also must prohibit disqualification of persons from taking examinations or holding office because of political or religious opinions."

McNutt said the merit plan standards issued to the states followed generally the federal and state civil service system.

"In the absence of a state civil service system with substantially equivalent standards," he said, "there must be established merit systems administered by impartial bodies to be known as 'merit systems councils.' Council members to be appointed by the governor or recommendation of the administrative agencies."

State agencies will be required to establish and maintain classification and compensation plans for all positions and examinations must be administered by a merit system supervisor on an open competitive basis, McNutt said.

Present state merit systems will continue in operation until superseded by new systems. The board asked each state agency to report by January 1 on existing systems or submit details of action on new standards designed to meet federal requirements.

Charge "U. S. Raid"

LITTLE ROCK — Federal government bureaucrats are ready to include the State Education Department in their control of jobs and were charged Monday with preparing to place an "approved professor, who will serve as a front" in charge of a state Merit System Council.

The first move will be a proposal that the Arkansas public schools cooperate with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. T. H. Alford, commissioner of education, has been invited to Washington to confer on the suggestion. The AAA will pay his expenses.

The next step will be an attempt to place department employees under a merit system, through enactment of the Thomas-Harrison bill not pending in congress, state officials said.

A forecast that the Social Security Board as Washington would attempt to control jobs in the Health and Welfare departments, the Unemployment Compensation Division and Arkansas State Employment Service was borne out Monday when the SSB notified the departments that they must abide by its regulations or suffer loss of federal aid.

Major developments included:

1. George D. Riley, editor of the Washington Times Herald, notified Governor Bailey of a "personnel hierarchy" to be set up in Arkansas by the SSB. Mr. Riley said an administrator "satisfactory to the board" would be placed in charge.

2. Dr. W. B. Grayson, state health officer, said the merit system order was "the first effort to centralize state powers in Washington."

3. Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, announced that the merit system "must bar employees from participating in political activities except to express their views and cast their ballots as private citizens."

4. Governor Bailey said he had no objection.

Mystery Circus at City Hall at 8 p. m.

Band Mothers Sponsoring The Great Virgil Tuesday Night

Thrills and plenty of fun is promised local people when the Great Virgil, famous magician and illusionist, with his skilled company of merry miracle workers brings his show of a thousand wonders to the stage of the city hall auditorium at 8 p. m. Tuesday.

The Great Virgil is considered the fastest and most mystifying magician on tour today, presenting as many as nine baffling mysteries in the course of three minutes.

Starting with such feats as snatching live birds and bowls of fire and water out of thin air, the Great Virgil goes swiftly into the more sensational effects of Chinatown After Dark, the Dis-solving of the bodies of two human beings, making it possible for them to pass through solid walls, the beautiful Hindoo Princess asleep in Mid-air, Satan burns a man, an execution on Mars, Chinese opium den mystery, and dozens of others using elaborate equipment that will tax the capacity of the city hall stage.

The Seven Unsolved Mysteries of India, which the Great Virgil brought to this country, have baffled American magicians for the past three years. The Great Virgil has actually solved the two greatest mysteries of the Hindoo magicians: The Basket Mystery and the Hindoo Rope Miracle, which he now includes in his performance. During the Hindoo Rope Miracle, Virgil casts a rope high in the air where it remains suspended in space; a boy climbs to the top of the rope and without being covered in any way, vanishes and the rope falls back to the stage.

One of the most startling and breath-taking scenes in the Great Virgil's performance is when he introduces Simbu, the real live African lion. Simbu is placed in a strong cage and hoisted in mid-air by means of a block and tackle and while in full view Simbu disappears in a puff of smoke.

Illusions and feats of magic follow in such rapid succession that the entire auditorium seems transformed into a veritable fairyland during the entire two hours.

During one of the many scenes the Great Virgil presents a spirit scene, during which everything is expected to happen—and does.

A special feature of this mystery extravaganza will be Julie, the girl with the mind 4000 years ahead of our time. Julie will leave absolutely no doubt as to her ability to read minds as she actually tells many members of the audience exactly what is passing through their minds. Julie claims that what she does is due to a highly scientific development of the mind, and that communication by means of mental telepathy will be in common use 4000 years from now.

Six dazzling changes of scenery, dozens of beautiful costumes and a company of highly trained assistants and stage technicians are used during the two hour presentation of this elaborate mystery production.

The full evening performance of the Great Virgil, which will be presented at 8 p. m. at the city hall auditorium is said to be just one long laugh and more fun than a three ring circus.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Skin Requires Special Attention When Exposed to Wintery Blasts

The glands of the skin do not function as actively in cold as in warm weather. Both dry heat in our homes and exposure to the cold outdoors may be detrimental to the skin. The problem of caring for the skin in winter is quite different from that in summer.

In a recent issue of Hygiene, Dr. Eugene E. Traub emphasizes the fact that the customary bath taken with soap in the winter will dry the skin. Scaling and cracking will result. This is a warning sign that protective steps should be taken. All parts of the body do not chap with equal ease. The legs, arms, hands, face and trunk are parts most likely to be affected.

The use of soap and water on the skin removes the natural lubricant. It may be necessary, therefore, to provide artificial lubrication for the skin. In the case of people past middle life, less frequent bathing is often advisable in cold weather. Two or three baths a week instead of daily baths should suffice, unless it is possible to lubricate the skin. The addition of bran, cornstarch or baking soda to the water will help to soften it.

For chapped lips, it is important to avoid irritating mouth washes, soap, tobacco and chewing gum. Any preparation like cold cream, petroleum or lanolin will serve to lubricate the skin until the chapping is healed.

If eczema occurs, the condition is certainly serious enough to demand medical attention.

upon collaborators to set music in their words. A few of them, like Mitchell Paris, who did the lyrics to "Star Dust" and "The Lamp is Low," have the ability to set words to music already written. Another so talented is Johnny Mercer, while a third no pulls teeth and rhymes, alternately.

Songwriting's Are Battery

Long Brown, later a musical comedy producer, found lyric writing to be the open sesame to show business. Brown was, perhaps, one of the most prolific of the lyricists, with several thousand song words to his credit. He was one-third of a famous trio.

The team of DeSylva, Brown and Henderson was one of the most important combinations of Tin Pan Alley in the twenties. Then Buddy DeSylva, who also wrote song words, went to Hollywood. Brown became a producer. And only Rex Henderson remained content to finger and rhyme love with dove.

Another who made his Broadway debut as a lyricist was Billy Rose, who converted a swimming pool into a gold mine at the local World's Fair. When the diminutive showman launched himself upon the waves of musical success, he was a champion short-hand writer and stenographer. But he had browsed through song collections in the public library to find what the public wanted—a rule he has strictly obeyed since then.

He probably is proudest of such rhapsodizing as "That Old Gang of Mine," "Me and My Shadow," and "Without a Song." This year, Rose felt a superfluity of melody in his heart instead of a lack of it, so, with Dana Suesse, he wrote a number called "Your for a Song."

Two of the Rialto's illustrious citizens, George Abbot and Joseph Cullen, might have been full-fledged songwriters today if it weren't for the fact that accounting departments of music firms allow royalties to accrue for some time before sending a check to the composers.

About six months before the celebrated drama, "Broadway," rocketed Abbot to producing fame and fortune and Cullen, who played in it, to footlight renown, they had written a song together.

They received a small advance royalty check, which kept the wolf from the door, while, but again knew penury while awaiting additional remuneration. In the meantime "Broadway" opened and Abbot and his partner were able to let out their respective belts.

Two weeks after "Broadway" opened and was on its way to its first million, they received a song royalty of twenty dollars. They looked at each other in awe.

"If this check," said Abbot, who has earned considerable wealth from the theater, "had arrived five or six weeks sooner, we might have decided to stick to song writing!"

Now in Abbot's employ is Milton Berle. He is a comedian of vaudeville, a legitimate actor, a radio gagman, and a screen luminary.

But Mr. Berle knows where his bread will be buttered eventually. For all his spare moments are devoted to lyricizing. He wants to get rich quick and the financial returns for a lyric in Tin Pan Alley are out of all proportion to initial effort of the brain-matter consumed.

CHAPTER XXX

DAN left the house through the back door. He took no chances by venturing through that mob downstairs.

He hailed a cab on the corner and climbed in. "Hotel Regent," he directed.

The entire downtown district was just a bedlam of noise and confusion. Thousands jammed the streets, hotel lobbies and bars in hilarious celebration. High above the pavement some of the more tipsy celebrants in their rooms dropped paper bags of water on unsuspecting but unprotesting pedestrians.

A shower of feathers broke over Dan as he alighted from the cab. Someone on the seventh floor of the Regent had slit open the pillows as a substitute for confetti.

Street cars were tied up for two blocks as wild-eyed undergraduates pulled the trolleys from the wire. Police whistles shrilled unheeded as traffic rules and regulations were tossed to the winds. But the police wisely and good-naturedly forgave everything as the town celebrated.

The lobby at the Regent was in an uproar. The management, with great discretion, had removed the rugs and more expensive furniture. A dozen old grads had peeled off their coats and were replaying the game over in one corner, as a police captain acted as referee.

Dan jumped back just in time as three freshmen splashed by with a large gold fish aquarium they had appropriated from the far side of the lobby.

He called the Johnson suite on the house phone. "I don't dare to be recognized," he told Joan. "Where'll I meet you?"

Her laugh tinkled back over the wire. "Duck into an elevator and come right up. Dad's ordered dinner served in the rooms."

J. G. met him at the door. "Welcome, young man... glad you came... sit down, sit down."

J. G. shifted his cigar and drew up a chair. "Joan'll be right out... you know how women are with their makeup... silly stuff... silly, I say."

Dan had no opportunity to comment as J. G. rumbled on. "How's the hand... feel tired...?"

Joan, appearing suddenly, rescued him. She took Dan by the arm. "Quit plaguing him, Pops. He doesn't want to talk. He wants to eat. Right?"

It was a delicious meal, but Joan, glancing at him every once in a while, sensed something was wrong.

"Dan... there's something bothering you."

"Guess I might as well tell you," he replied quietly. "I found a letter at the house when I got back. It... it wasn't good news at all."

"What's wrong, boy... what's wrong?" J. G. demanded. "Nothing we can't fix... nothing we can't set right... speak up, son... I'll take care of it."

"Thanks, you overwhelm me," he replied a little dully, "but this is something different. It's just that I got a letter from the company I expected to work for after graduation. They say they're awfully sorry, of course, but it seems as though a change in ownership and policy has made it necessary to break any commitments they had made to me previously. In fact, they promise nothing."

He turned to Joan fiercely. "I'd been counting on that job. I'll be darned if I play pro ball or take a teaching job." He stared moodily at his salad.

JOAN winked at her father. J. G.'s laugh exploded through the room and Dan looked at him, somewhat hurt. He didn't notice Joan was smothering a grin.

"I don't get it at all," Dan said dolefully. "Or have I lost my sense of humor?"

J. G. cleared his throat for another verbal barrage, but Joan beat him to it.

"Maybe I should have told you this before, Dan... especially since it concerns you so vitally!" She smiled impishly. "Don't look now, but you're dining with your future employer."

"I'm what with who?" he echoed.

"Acme Pottery Products," she announced, "is now a unit of J. G. Popson Industries, Inc. It was Pop's firm that bought it."

"Yesir," J. G. boomed, "and

Time
So much time I seem to need
For the books I want to read,
So much time (how fleeting is it!)
For the friends I want to visit.
So much time to do the small things
Which are valued above all things!
So much time to call my own
For the fineness I postpone.
Yet no day that comes to me
Will one minute longer be,
And no day for all I miss
Grants a fuller hour than this.
Would I visit, would I read,
Would I share another's need?
Would I finer grow, somehow?
There's no better time than now.

Kiss Confusion

That kiss of Movie Actress Ann Rutherford's covered a lot of territory when she hit New York. Four press agents set up four major receptions for Miss Rutherford and the resulting accumulation of welcomes left her no alternative but to blow a kiss in the general direction of somebody.

San Francisco said lots just as his two elder brothers did.

Sale of Dominic's contract, along with that of Larry Powell, young left-handed pitcher, was announced by the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League. Powell will report in 1941.

Frank "Lefty" O'Doul, manager of the Seals, said "We get cash and two players" from Boston.

"The players will be decided at the major league meeting in Cincinnati December 4," O'Doul said. "I am not at liberty to discuss the cash involved."

Like his brothers, Joe and Vince, Dominic broke into professional baseball with the San Francisco club. Coast League experts contend that Dominic is the best flyhawk of the three.

Dominic, 21, joined the Seals in 1937 and batted .306. In 1938 he hit .307 and last season batted .300. Powell, also just voting age, was one of San Francisco's leading pitchers last year, his first as a regular. The young southpaw from McElroy, Calif., won 12 and lost 11 games.

Revival Continues Gospel Tabernacle

"The Soon Return of Jesus Christ," Subject of Sermon

"The Soon Return of Jesus Christ," will be the sermon subject Tuesday night at the Hope Gospel Tabernacle, where Rev. Wm. F. McPherson of Sanford, Fla., is conducting a revival campaign. Another interesting feature in Tuesday night's service will be the singing of the well known Hope Quartet.

The revival will continue through out this week with service each night, except Saturday night, at 7:30, and each morning except Monday and Saturday, at 10. Wednesday has been set aside as a day of fasting prayer by the Tabernacle congregation.

There will be a prayer meeting held at the Tabernacle at noon for those who desire to spend the noon hour in prayer and worship.

Friday night the evangelist will preach on "Divine Healing," and will offer prayer for the sick. It is expected that the Tabernacle will be filled to capacity on this occasion.

Despite inclement weather over the week and great crowds attend the services, Sunday night the Tabernacle was filled. The goal of five hundred in Sunday School was not reached due to the weather, but the goal remains five hundred for the coming Sunday.

The pastor, Rev. James E. Hamill, urges everyone to avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing Evangelist McPherson in these remaining services.

Christman Snores Through Reception

Remains at His Home While Students Celebrate in His Honor

COLUMBIA, Mo.—(AP)—Paul Christman, the gay Missouri Lochinvar who rode through the New York University eleven on a football, snored through a reception in his honor Monday.

Saturday Christman's pitching was compared to that of Red Ruffing in the recent World Series. Monday he slept through the clamor of homecoming with all the poise of Ernie Lombardi, the summbulant Cincinnati catcher.

And that snoozing is as characteristic of Christman as his precision forward passing. During the actual play he sparkles with the brilliance of champagne—in midweek practice he has all the fire and zip of day-old-beer.

Not only did Christman miss the 2000 students who braved 16 degree temperature and a breakfast-less morning to awaken at St. Louis where his parents live.

There Mrs. Charles Christman expressed no regrets for her decision which permitted Paul to play football. For a time both Paul and his elder brother, Mark, third baseman for the St. Louis Browns were forbidden the gridiron sport.

Later she related, "Was I excited?" She asked when questioned about Missouri's willing of the New York Violets.

"I should say I was. When I heard the news I ran out on the front porch and jumped up and down and shouted, 'Hurrah for Missouri, Hurrah for Paul, Hurrah for everybody!'"

But the star himself was surprisingly inarticulate Monday. To queries of Saturday's game he answered simply "we took them." Questions as to this week's clash with unbeaten Oklahoma in which the Big Six conference lead will be determined brought forth an honest "it will be plenty tough."

In the seven Missouri games this season Christman has attempted 167 of his tantalizing tosses with only 10 intercepted and 58 completed for an .514 average. They netted 734 yards or a little over 14 yards each.

His record in last year's nine-game schedule, when he was rated third best passer in the country, is 1020 yards gained on 63 completions out of 144 attempts. Twenty-three of his 1938 flips were to Jim Starnner, a back, but this season he aims consistently at the ends where the GRB twins gambol.

"Torpedo" Styling
has taken America by storm
Illustrating the "Torpedo" Eight 4-Door Touring Sedan, $1072*

If it isn't a Pontiac it isn't a "Torpedo"

NO, "Torpedo styling" isn't a term like "four-wheel brakes" or "safety glass." It doesn't denote a development that's industry-wide—as yet! It's the colorful phrase that America adopted to describe the boldly different beauty of the biggest, smartest, most luxurious Pontiac ever built.

Without that sparkling jewel-like front-end and its cresting Silver Streak—without those flaring fenders fore and that artful taper aft, it could only be "just another car." But NOT A PONTIAC "TORPEDO"—with its rich interior luxury and the thrilling, thrifty eight-performance for which Pontiac is renowned.

So when you can't resist the urge to own an eight with "Torpedo" styling, come in and get the only car that has it—the leader of Pontiac's 1940 line of 17 sixes and eights...all supremely smart and brilliantly beautiful!

Largest Bear of Season Is 1,500

Hide Measures 11 Feet long and 11 Feet 8 Inches Wide

JUNEAU, Alaska—(AP)—Compilation of professional guides' reports show the largest brown bear killed the past season was a 1,500-pounder brought down by D. S. Hopkins, Spokane, Wash., hunting near Uyak Bay May 10.

The hide measured 11 feet long, 11 feet 8 inches wide, and the skull, weighing 20 pounds, was 19½ inches long and a foot across.

Samuel H. Hostetter, Hutchinson, Kansas, hunting on Admiralty Island, brought down the season's biggest grizzly. Its hide was 9 feet 4 inches each dimension and its skull was 18½ by 8½ inches.

Henry A. Roemer, Pittsburgh, Pa., shot the largest southeastern Alaska black bear of the year. It measured 7 feet 3½ inches square and had a skull 12½ by 8½ inches.

W. Osborn, hunting for the American Museum of Natural History, New York City, took out the largest bull moose of the year. It was shot in the Kenai Peninsula, and had an antler spread of 65 inches, a palm breadth of 14 inches and had 34 points. Guide Tom Odale found a moose, killed by another, near Tustumena Lake, which had an all-time Alaska record spread of 78 inches.

William Phillips, Bath, N. Y., brought down a mountain goat in southeastern Alaska which had horns 9 inches long by 4 inches circumference at the base. The goat weighed 20 pounds.

The largest mountain sheep reported this year was shot in Rainy Pass by C. B. Parr, San Diego, Tex. Its horns measured 39½ inches, front curve; had a 21-inch spread and were 14½ inches around at the base.
